Japanese Leader Visits Varsity

Chief Abbot Kosho Otani, spiritual leader of over 7,000,000 Japanese, visited the University of Alberta this week as part of his tour of Canada and the United States.

Abbot Otani is the head of 10,698 Buddhist temples and the Nishi Hongwanji, of Kyoto, Japan. His wife, daughter of Prince Tokudaiji, is a member of the Japanese royal family.

While on the campus, Abbot Otani gave an address on the nature and history of Buddhism to a gathering in the Students' Union Building.

Prepping For Wauneita

Little last minute primping for Robin Williams, Commerce III, and she's all ready to go to the big Wauneita formal last Saturday in the Drill Hall. Bottom picture, four anxious males nervously eye their watches, hoping they have not been "stood up" on the first big night of the year. A more-than-capacity crowd jammed the tastefully decorated Gymnasium as tribe president Doris Bainbridge and her crew marked another entry in Wauneita's list of successful functions.

McEachern Cancer Laboratory Marks Milestone In Medicine

By Robert Jones

As a monument to a great Albertan, the John S. McEachern Cancer Research laboratory opened its doors officially last Saturday at the University of Alberta.

Mrs. McEachern, widow of Dr. McEachern, unveiled the plaque at the north end of the building, thus sending Alberta into a new era of scientific investigation into the causes and cures of cancer.

Previously, addresses by nationally-known Cancer organization heads had been given in convocation hall. Dr. Andrew Stewart was chairman of the meeting; and present to speak briefly were Dr. E. P. Scarlett, the new chancellor, Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health, and Dr. R. F. Shaner, chairman of the laboratory committee.

Pro Cons Study Reds And Rights

Communism and a Canadian bill of rights will be the first part of the Progressive Conservative platform to be studied by the policy and research committee of the University of Alberta Progressive Conservative club, it was decided at the first meeting of the committee, held Thursday afternoon.

The committee intends to hold a meeting every two weeks. At each of these meetings, a segment of the Progressive Conservative platform will be studied with a view as to how it may be brought up to date or improved.

To better achieve this end, the platform has been divided into ten sections of study as follows: Communism and a Canadian bill of rights for Thursday, November 13; external affairs and national defence for two weeks later; social welfare, including housing; taxation, development; international finance and trade; Dominion and Commonwealth Affairs; immigration and labour; freight rates and agriculture; Dominion-Provincial relations; radio and television, and the Canadian legal code.

As the reports of this committee are compiled they will be submitted to the club for approval. It is the intention to send these proposals of policy, in the form of resolutions, to Ottawa and to the policy and research committee of the Western Canada Young Progressive Conservative association.

This committee is chaired by Alex Jupp, provincial Conservative candidate for Regina in the recent Saskatchewan elections.

Dr. Ethelyn Trapp, president of the National Cancer Institute of Canada, told the audience of 250 gathered in Convocation hall, of several aspects of the fight against cancer.

"In cancer of the cervix in women, for example," she pointed out, "from 65 to 70 per cent of early cases can now be completely cured. A number of years ago, the percentage of hopeless cases in such types of cancer was very high—even in early cases."

G. R. A. Rice, president of the Alberta division of the Canadian Cancer society, pointed out that the new laboratory required a coordination between the public who provided the funds, business men who provided the business knowledge, scientific knowledge, and the scientists who provided the cancer society, W. Butterfield, remembered the late Dr. McEachern as a man "who had always been in the forefront of cancer research, and who had always been one of the most able and enthusiastic research workers."

Following the unveiling ceremonies, many of those present toured the new laboratory. The Mixed Chorus was present for the singing of "The Queen".

Classes Cancelled

Lectures and laboratories will be withdrawn Remembrance Day, Tuesday, Nov. 11.

Tri-Military Parade Friday

Annual parade and march past of three military contingents on the campus will be held on Friday, Nov. 7. Participating in this ceremony will be approximately 125 cadets from the University Naval Training Division, the Canadian Officers Training Corps, and the University of Alberta Reserve Squadron.

The parade will form up at 2:10 p.m. behind the Students Union building, and will march down 88th Avenue to 112th Street. It will turn north on 112th Street and will proceed around past main entrance of the Arts building, where the salute will be taken by President Andrew Stewart at approximately 2:25 p.m. He will be accompanied on the reviewing stand by the commanding officers of the three contingents: Lt.-Cmdr. R. E. Phillips, Lt.-Col. D. M. Healy, and Squadron Leader L. E. Gads.

The parade will be conducted entirely by the cadets themselves. The Tactical Air Group band of the RCAF will be in attendance to play for the march-past.

Writer training activities for the University COTC Contingent got off to a good start on Monday, Oct. 27, when second and third year Officer Cadets started work on the theoretical portion of their course in preparation for next summer's practical training.

Lt.-Col. Healy conducted a "bull session" during which the cadet activities at the Army Corps School during the summer were discussed. A wide range of topics was covered including sour milk, training pro-

Orchard To Address Philsoc.

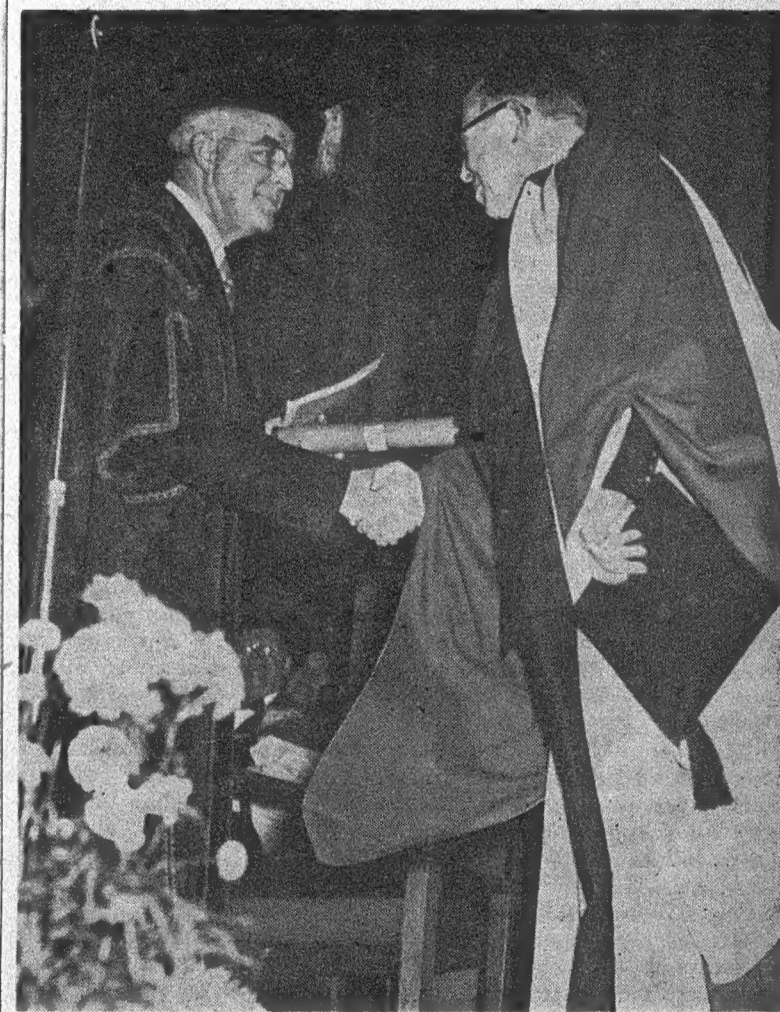

Professor Robert Orchard of the department of fine arts and director of Studio Theatre will address the Philosophical society on "The Arts and Nationalism in Canada" at 8:15 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 12, in Room 142, Medical building.

His talk will deal with the function of art as a part of our individual, social and national life and how art affects national self-awareness, using Canada and other countries as examples.

Professor Orchard will discuss the emergence of a cultural independence in Canada. His talk may be illustrated by some recordings and slides.

The meeting is open to all students and the general public.

Drs. Scarlett and Milner

Dr. E. P. Scarlett, newly installed Chancellor of the University, confers an honorary doctor of laws degree on H. R. Milner, prominent Edmonton industrialist, during last Saturday's fall convocation ceremonies. During his address to the more than two hundred graduands, Mr. Milner warned of the present-day danger of too much government. "Government should exist within the proper sphere of its activities as the servant of the people. As individuals and individualists, we should keep it there."

Also receiving the honorary doctor of laws degree was Chief Justice G. B. O'Connor of the Alberta Supreme Court.

Subsidized Accommodation

During his initial speech to Convocation after being installed as chancellor of the University of Alberta, Dr. Earle Parkhill Scarlett presented a suggestion that should be considered carefully by both university and provincial government officials.

While urging that university training be liberalized by a greater emphasis on human affairs, Dr. Scarlett advocated a change in the climate of intellectual life. Toward this end, he proposed an increase in dormitory facilities at the university.

Although the chancellor did not elaborate further on his suggestion, its value is readily apparent.

Despite a growing trend toward providing scholarships covering students' fees, no serious thought appears to have been given before to a need that is equally great—if not greater.

Official university residences charge $60 a month for board and room; other off-campus accommodation is not much cheaper. So the out-of-town high school graduate who considers attending the U of A must also consider the prospect of spending $420 a year for board—plus tuition and Students Union fees ranging from $200 to $300—plus personal expenses.

That is, to come to university from a point outside Edmonton one must be willing to make an outlay of up to $1,000.

Unquestionably, such a prospect is bound to act as a deterrent to anyone contemplating higher education. Therefore, it is refreshing to hear a suggestion that some measure be taken toward helping students to meet this problem. And it is all the more refreshing that such a suggestion comes from a person of such authority and influence as Alberta's new chancellor.—H.J.L.

Chloe!

Front page of this week's Gateway contains three bottom banners. It looks terrible. It is.

What's even worse is that there are three events on during one weekend that deserve what most club's seem to consider the best kind of publicity. Three weeks ago there were no campus functions scheduled. The same probably holds true for weekends in the future.

We have a scheduling committee. Where are they?—D.F.F.

"Long Live The Republic"

While on the subject of the scheduling committee, we might point out that the act creating that body provides in Section V, subsection 4, that "it shall be the duty of the Scheduling Committee to have a Time-Table of Major Events for the term printed in the current Telephone Directory." For the last three years, at least, this has not been done. Elsewhere in this issue is just such a schedule, but that is not the point in question.

The recent "blank-check" amendment passed by Council has been argued pro and con in The Gateway editorial columns the last few weeks. Reaction from the students has been exactly nil. Apparently they're more concerned with such burning questions as to whether the Students' Union should subsidize an alleged "Sunday evening chesterfield rugby club." All right, you asked for it.

Students' Council should definitely go ahead and get this amendment on the books. Then they could "suspend" such bothersome constitutional provisions instead of just ignoring them. Constitutions get in the way, anyways, don't they?

Our only hope is that "philosopher-king Stack" and our "guardian-class" of Student Council members don't allow the monarchy to degenerate into a tyranny.—D.F.F.

MASTER OF HIS MEDIUM

Editor, The Gateway.

Dear Sir:

In fairness to Mr. Jones, it must be admitted that he is indeed the master of his literary medium. In his case against vivisection he undertook to create an atmosphere of pathos; the outcome was undeniably pathetic.

Very sincerely yours,

W. D. ENGELS,

Med II.

SCIENCE MARCHES

Editor, The Gateway.

Dear Sir:

I would like to make a correction of the definition of vivisection as appeared by Mr. Jones in the Oct. 30 issue of The Gateway: i.e., the practice of subjecting living animals to cutting operations while under complete anaesthesia, especially to advance physiological and pathological knowledge.

Mr. Jones' dramatic writing is to be commended, but perhaps a few additions would be of value to animal lovers, as all of us are.

Let us think not only of a boy losing a dog, but losing it so that perhaps someone's life might be saved through some bit of knowledge gained.

If no animals were able to be used, how often would you hear these words: "No 'I'm sorry, madam, we can't save your little girl. We don't have enough information about her disease'?"

If research workers can't use animals, what will they use—humans? Yes, science marches, it marches onward for the benefit of mankind with the aid of Pal.

Yours truly,

D. F. GREEN,

NOT SMART

Editor, The Gateway.

Dear Sir:

Upon reading Mr. Lief Stolee's letter in the Oct. 30 issue of The Gateway I was shocked. This piece of literature was not the least bit smart. I will agree that some newspapers do appear to be biased, but none half so much as Lief Stolee. He has taken it upon himself to convince everybody how smart he is by calling down, note this, a girl. It seems very odd that his great knowledge of world affairs does not include the Canadian Income Tax department.

One last word: when you have served your country as well as a lot of the Legionnaires, in both Canada and the U.S., then you might get away with such a loathsome remark, but until such time you'd do everybody a service by conversing about things in a manner that falls within social decency.

Yours truly,

WM. A. MacWILLIAMS,

Arts and Science III.

MR. TURNER REPLIES

Editor, The Gateway.

Dear Sir:

I am happy to see that my remarks in council have raised so much publicity for the Outdoor club. This is exactly what I intended, in the hope that some of your younger and prospective members might become interested in maintaining the Varsity Outdoor club ski hill. Although some feel I'm unqualified, I would venture to say that a very few people from the Outdoor club have come over to work on the hill during the past four years.

The club was originally formed as a ski club, known as the Outdoor club when they used the Eskimo Ski club hill in the thirties. A few years later they constructed their own hill and cabin east of the campus, and boasted one of the best ski jumps in town. The jump was destroyed, but the hill expanded, attracting no less than two hundred to three hundred people on a Sunday afternoon.

Unfortunately, in 1948, the hill and cabin were destroyed by city road construction. Through the efforts of a few members and skiers, the city agreed to build a new cabin and two hills.

If those interested members will study the terrain, they will note that the cabin, by city mistake, is situated at the bottom of the best piece of ground for hill No. 1, and that a satisfactory hill cannot be cleared west of the cabin because you are no longer on University of Alberta property.

Hill No. 2 was roughed out, but remained unskiable for three years until a "cat" was brought onto the hill by one student and financed by the UAB. However, an active interest must be maintained in the hill by the club to prevent deterioration.

It is truly stated by Mr. Giles that the club offers some type of activity that will interest every student. Therefore when the snow falls, I will look forward to meeting Outdoor clubbers any Saturday or Sunday afternoon on the varsity ski hill.

BOB TURNER,

Dent IV.

LIMITS OF ART

Editor, The Gateway.

Dear Sir:

What has Lenore Conacher done to deserve the wrath of the gods? To call her "a beer-slinging stenographer with an embryonic IQ" is rather violent. There is an inverse-divine ignorance in this taxi driver's attack.

Name calling can be an art, but art has its limits. Using thumb screws, racks and boiling lead is an art that brutalizes both the torturer and the tormented. His sort of wallowing in personal insults and nasty epithets neither clarifies nor solves the problem.

L. SORUM,

Commerce III.

MASSSES OF FRUSTRATION

Editor, The Gateway.

Dear Sir:

The library may be a librarian's dream, but certain aspects of it are a nightmare that has reduced many of us to inarticulate masses of frustration. I am speaking particularly of the medical reading room.

I would like to invite anyone reading this to a first class display of childishness. It consists of the display of fines upon the main desk in the reading room that are levied against medical students for bringing borrowed books back late. Last year the problem became a prominent one. Many students cannot afford all the medical texts and rely heavily on the library. Many references require a great deal of time to get the material that is needed. Often the book is only of value the next day in a lab. More than a single night is required to do all this and the other necessary work. The library staff should have and probably did recognize this fact.

There are many ways they could have responded, getting more frequently used volumes, fewer of the ones less used. But fines are much easier and much less effective.

Another aspect is the location of books. In other parts of the library, the stacks are open only to graduate and honors students. This does not apply to the medical room. When you wish to find material in an unknown book, what good is a file card? Usually it is just not found. Even when you only want to browse

BOUQUETS

Music club concert November 2 surprisingly enjoyable—in fact, much superior to that of Sept. 28.

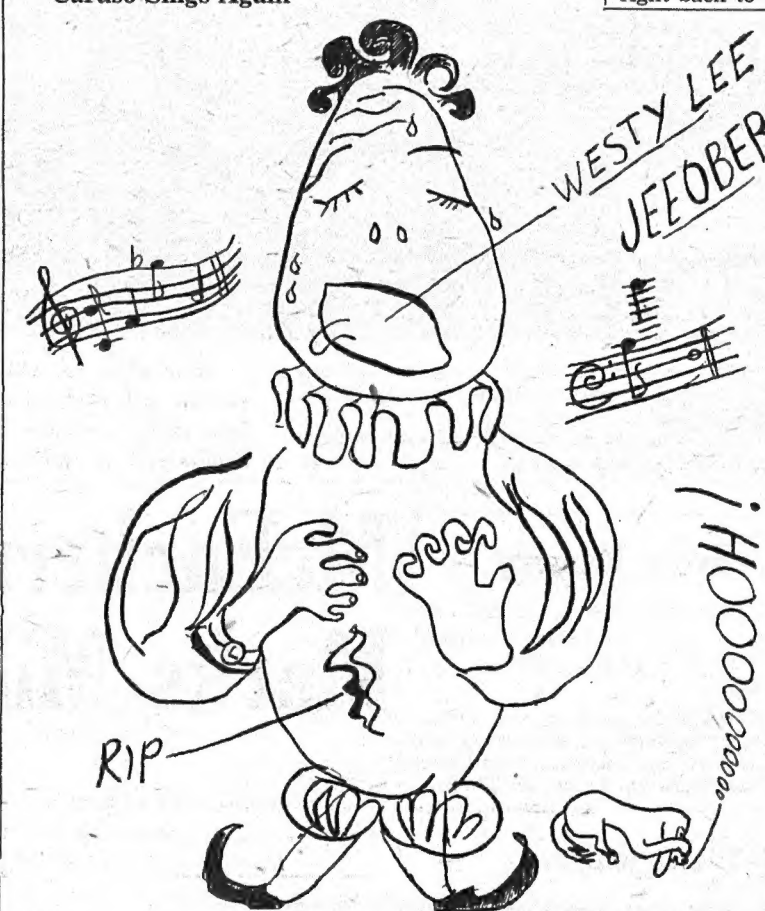

Pianist Dierdre Foster produced a clear crisp interpretation of Chopin at his worst—the Waltz in E Flat. Beethoven received a just treatment although attempts at rubato were not always satisfying. However, Miss Foster exhibited remarkable agility in some of the more difficult passages. Her performance of Debussy was disappointing—perhaps because of indiscreet use of the sustaining pedal. It is unfortunate that many pianists choose "the beautiful Claire de Lune". Debussy did write a few more. Consider M. A. Brine's superb performance.

Tenor Bill Windsor received the most thunderous burst of applause. Mr. Windsor has a delightful voice—well suited to his choice of songs—two of which were from the scented school invoked by the true Emily Dickinson spirit. His diction was remarkably distinct (exception—exaggeration of the letter "e"—decoo instead of dew) and tones were satisfyingly accurate. Shades of Bill Kenney! Of course he had the advantage of being accompanied by Miss D. Parker.

Alan Bell (violinist) met and defeated the challenge of a notorious instrument. The accompanist lagged at the start of Wieniawski's Romance—but atoned for lost time by convincingly covering Mr. Bell in the Evening Song. Mr. Bell's apparent lack of confidence detracted little from his very excellent performance.

The following lines were found on the back of a program after the Saturday night performance of the Canadian National (Brewer's) Ballet Company. It was handed to our North Side correspondent, who wishes to remain anonymous.

O Debussy in grave so deep,
O Thou whose music bids us sleep,
O Thou who whimpers soft and grey
Thy music's danced so hot and red.
O aren't you glad that you are dead?

O hear and guide my trembling hand
As I pour out in words of poesy
A praise of ballet much too rosy.
O Debussy, in grave so deep
Move over, let me also weep!

Phi Deltas, Kappa Sigma, LCA's Place In Playoffs

Under ideal weather conditions, the Intramural Touch Football league finished its schedule with the top three teams engaging in a round-robin to decide the championship.

Phi Delta Theta defeated Kappa Sigma and Lambda Chi Alpha to clinch the laurels. Kappa Sigma defaulted to the LCA's in the third match. Last year no champion was declared because of adverse weather conditions.

of all is one concerned with taking books out at night. In the mistaken belief that students would study books after 3:30 p.m., this hour has been set as the time after which you may take volumes home. Many times I, and many others, have gone to the room around 2:30 or 3 p.m., and have been told that, if I wish, I may read the book in the room until 3:30 and then take it home. Could the librarian, or anyone else, please tell me how in the world any other student could possibly use the book if I were to be so stupid as to sit there for half an hour and look at it. This kind of rule may apply to the rest of the library, but it certainly does not apply to the medical room.

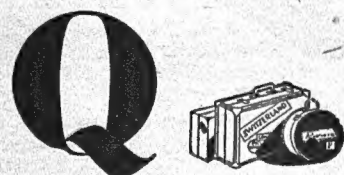

Please, for goodness sake, let's have a little more use out of the library than a nice place to show visitors around. These remarks are not directed at the service of the staff, but definitely to those who make the policy for the library.

Yours sincerely,

Phi Deltas won by convincing 12-0 and 26-0 scores, while Lambda Chi won 2-0 via the default route. All three games were run under the superb officiating of Herb "The Honest Arbitrator" McLachlin, Don "I calls 'em as I sees 'em" Smith, Ernie Wynychuk, Dave Van Helden, and Bob Gourdine.

In the first round-robin contest, Phi Deltas chalked up their twelve points when Bob Wright and Don Macintosh crossed the end zone on passes from Bill Fitzpatrick, and Ed Garrett smashed through the Kap Sig line to nail Ted Allison for a safety touch.

On Wednesday, the Phi Deltas really had a field day as they swamped the LCA's 26-0. Fitzpatrick, calling a heady game, tried every play in the book. He skirted right end for 15 yards and the first major.

Then a Fitzpatrick-to-Wright pass clicked for another TD to give the Division A champs a 10-0 half-time lead.

When the LCA's kicked off to start the second half, Fitzpatrick made use of a rule whereby a kicked ball is a free ball, and promptly returned the kick up the field where John Fisher gathered it in for five points.

Then the Phi Delt linemen took over the scoring. Ed Garrett twice brought down Ron Thomas for safety touches. Jim Millard followed his example and nailed Don Sargeant for another two points, to bring the score to 21-0. In the dying moments of the game, Fitzpatrick capped a terrific offensive by passing to Garrett for the final TD.

Lambda Chi finally crashed the win column the next day, when the officials outnumbered the Kappa Sig players at starting time. Later, more Sigs turned up and they defeated the LCA's 10-0, but it had no effect on the final standings as McLachlin awarded the game to Lambda Chi 2-0.

Mixed Swimming YWCA Tuesdays

A surprising number of about 40 swimmers went through a hard workout at the YWCA pool last Tuesday.

Among them was Bob Conroy, a top provincial competitor and president of the men's swimming, newly married Peter Epp, and Trev Fregren, breast stroke star.

Disappointing, though, was the poor number of girls at the mixed swimming session. Mixed swimming is on Tuesday from 9 to 10.

"Sure, son! There's nickel all through the house. The heating elements in our toaster, iron, range and percolator are made of nickel-chromium wire. Our knives and forks are made of silver-plated nickel silver. There's nickel in the electric clock and thermostat. There's a lot of nickel in our car too."

"That must take a lot of nickel!"

"It does! International Nickel alone produces over 250 million pounds a year. Last year Inco spent 23 million dollars so that they could produce more nickel. It's a good thing we don't have to buy nickel from other countries—because right now a lot of it is needed for equipment for our defense."
